Put my knowledge to work for you!

Hello! I'm Chris Boivin. I want to put my knowledge to work for you. Intrigued? Here's a little about me.

I am an experienced, educated marketing and communications professional with technical expertise. I founded and led a chapter of the largest marketing association in North America, directed marketing technology activities in North America's largest consumer packaged goods brokerage, managed projects for a major health insurance company and led operational communications for a global research firm. My ability to communicate clearly and concisely and to solve problems creatively and logically is a unique blend of assets that enable me to help companies manage change, increase efficiency and expand capabilities.

If you have questions, suggestions or feedback, feel free to contact me anytime at chris@chrisboivinknows.com
